

Goat and sheep

One sunny day of spring a goat and a sheep were playing at a nice green land:

Sheep: -"Wow! Look at this amazing nature, let's be happy and enjoy it!"

Goat: - "Yes, that's true! But we must think of the winter. We have to build a nice house and keep many extra food."

Sheep:- "Are you crazy? Do you think all this green grass will disappear? I don't think so. Let me enjoy my amazing days. I don't like to spend time to build a house. It is not necessary."

Goat:- "If we do it together it will be easy and we will finish quickly".

Sheep:-" I don't want. Do it by yourself."

So the goat started alone to build the house. She spent a few weeks to finish it. Then she stored there a lot of food for the winter.

After a few months it snowed a lot! The goat stayed at her house and she didn't have any problems. But the sheep was feeling cold and hungry. He couldn't find any place to stay. Finally the sheep went outside the goat's house, knocked the door and said:

-"Please help me, open the door please! I am so sorry! I was so stupid that I didn't listen to your request to build a house for the winter. Please give me a place to stay. I'm gonna die outside".

The goat heard everything but didn't open the door.

So the sheep froze outside of the house during the night.
